It was an innovation two years ago when we began buying and selling by the dry-goods method—buying for cash to best advantage of largest manufacturers and selling on the close-profit plan. Thus it is a saving in two ways, and it brings shoes to the consumer for one third less than they cost when handled in the old-time way of a few sales and large profits. Besides, special purchasing of over-productions creates special sales, which have revolutionized shoe selling. This week 28 cases of ADHES', BOYS', AND MISSES' SHOES, a shipment from our Boston agent, are to be dealt out a pair at a time, for less than they would cost by the
